

CONTENTS

Introduction: The Primacy of Sensibility: Scott Burton writing on art and performance, 1965–1975 by David J. Getsy	1
I. Beyond Minimalism	33
Tony Smith: Old Master at the New Frontier (1966)	35
Tony Smith and Minimalist Sculpture (1967)	45
Ronald Bladen (1967)	69
When Attitudes Become Form: Notes on the New (1969)	71
Time on Their Hands (1969)	79
II. Abstraction and Allusion	87
David Weinrib: See-Through Sculpture (1967)	89
Ralph Humphrey: A Different Stripe (1968)	94
Al Held: Big H (1968)	103
Adja Yunkers: The Eye's Edge (1968)	112
Doug Ohlson: In The Wind (1968)	115
Leon Berkowitz: Color It Berkowitz (1969)	121
Willem de Kooning's Gotham News (1969)	125
Generation of Light, 1945–70 (1971)	128
Plates	141
III. Figurative and Realist Commitments	153
Anne Arnold's Animals (1965)	155
John Button (1967)	162
Robert Beauchamp: Paint the Devil (1966)	171

American Realism: Letter to the Editors of Artforum (1967)	176
Herman Rose: Telling and Showing (1967)	178
George McNeil and the Figure (1967)	185
Alex Katz (1968)	189
Direct Representation: Five Younger Realists (1969)	195
The Realist Revival (1972)	200
IV. Sculpture as Theater: Performance Art Statements	213
Three Street Works (1969)	215
Literalist Theater (1970)	217
From Literature to Performances (1970)	222
The Group Behavior Tableaux , early texts (1971–72)	225
Sculpture as Theater: The Lecture on Self (1973)	227
A Political Statement (1974)	244
Odd Years (1975)	246
Acknowledgements	248
Index	250